COOK ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY

WANTS TO BE THE NEXT UNITED STATES SENATOR.

WOULD DEFEAT LA FOLLETTE

Neenah Man Formally Declares He is in the Field—Will Announce Platform Later.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Milwaukee, Wis., April 2.—Samuel E. Cook, former congressman from the sixth district, aspirant for the governorship in 1904, candidate for the republican nomination for the United States senate in the four cornered fight two years ago, today announced himself as the candidate for the republican nomination for the United States senate at the republican primaries this coming fall.

Mr. Cook will have as his opponent for the same nomination, Robert M. La Follette, the present senior senator from the state, who while he has not made any formal announcement of his candidacy has been making his campaign arrangements for several months past.

WILL HONOR MEMORY OF FREEMAN CLARKE

New England Unitarians Preparing to Celebrate Centenary of Leader of Liberal Faith

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Boston, Mass., April 2.—New England Unitarians have arranged for an elaborate celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the birth of James Freeman Clarke, one of the leaders among those of the liberal faith. In the church of the Disciples, which he founded in 1841, there are to be commemorative services tomorrow morning. The exercises will include addresses by Rev. Robert Collyer, D. D., of New York, and the Rev. Samuel A. Eliot, D. D., president of the American Unitarian Association. Mrs. Julia Ward Howe will read a poem written for the occasion. On Monday another public service will be held in Arlington Street Church.

The memory of James Freeman Clarke is cherished by all Unitarians. Born at Hanover, N. H., April 4, 1810, he received his education at Harvard University and the Cambridge Divinity School. After his graduation he accepted a pulpit in Louisville and remained there until 1840, when he returned to Boston to become pastor of the church of the Disciples. Dr. Clarke held the secretaryship of the American Unitarian Association from 1859 to 1862, and was for many years one of the overseers of Harvard, as well as lecturer at the university. He enjoyed the warm friendship of Emerson, Channing, Whittier and other notables of his day.

THE ETERNAL CITY IS IN A FLUTTER

Of Anticipation Over the Expected Advent of Col. Roosevelt and His Party

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Rome, April 2.—The Eternal City is today in a flutter of anticipation over the arrival of former President Roosevelt. The coming of the distinguished visitor is an event in which all classes are deeply interested, for aside from Colonel Roosevelt's world-wide fame his visit is regarded in a way as a pleasant expression of the sentimental ties existing between Italy and the great American republic in which so many sons and daughters of the Italian kingdom have found prosperous homes. Outward and visible signs are abundant that a hearty and spontaneous welcome awaits the distinguished statesman and hunter.

During their stay in Rome, the Roosevelt party are to be the guests of the American Ambassador and Mrs. Leshman. So far as is known the former President will make no public address during his brief stay here. The royal and papal audiences will be the principal events on the program. The remainder of the time will be spent by the visitors in viewing points of interest in and about Rome.

King Victor Emmanuel will receive the ex-President and his son Kermit at the Quirinal Monday morning. In the afternoon Queen Helena will receive Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt, Kermit and Miss Ethel, and in the evening of the same day the visitors will be entertained at court dinner given in their honor. In addition to the members of the Roosevelt party the guests at the dinner will include Ambassador Leshman, Mrs. Leshman, other members of the American embassy, and several of the leading Italian statesmen.

The audience with Pope Pius is set for Tuesday. The event will be attended by no elaborate ceremonies, such as distinguishes the audiences granted crowned heads, but the order of procedure will be that followed in the cases of other distinguished visitors. All arrangements for the audience have been completed by the American Ambassador and Mrs. Kennedy, sector of the American college in Rome and a personal acquaintance of ex-President Roosevelt.

GRAND DUKE GEORGE EIGHTY-FOUR TODAY

Oldest European Monarch in Good Health—All Mornings Observes The Holiday.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Berlin, April 2.—Grand Duke George II. of Saxe-Meiningen, who is known as the oldest of European rulers, entered upon his eighty-fourth year today. A dispatch from Meiningen says that in celebration of the birthday anniversary the city was bedecked in an unusually elaborate manner and a general holiday was kept by all classes. During the day messages of congratulation were received by the aged Grand Duke from all the crowned heads of the German States, one of the most felicitous of the greetings being that sent by Emperor William. The general health of Grand Duke George is reported to be satisfactory, though he is suffering some from rheumatism. Of late years he has become totally deaf and is suffering some affliction in the case of one who in his time was regarded to be one of the greatest patrons and lovers of music in all Europe.

PAID TRIBUTE TO FRANCIS PIERPONT

United States Senate Today Formally Accepted Marble Effigy Presented By West Virginia.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, D. C., April 2.—In the Senate today, as a week of more than ordinary activity, business was laid aside while prominent speakers on both sides of the aisle paid eloquent tribute to the memory of Francis H. Pierpont, "the father of West Virginia." The occasion had to do with the formal acceptance by the Senate of the marble effigy of Pierpont contributed by the State of West Virginia to Statuary Hall. The statue was placed in the hall more than ten years ago but for one cause and other its formal acceptance by Congress was delayed until this time.

Francis H. Pierpont, whom West Virginia unhesitatingly claims as one of her two favorite sons whose memories were to be perpetuated in Statuary Hall, was Governor of Virginia during the stormy days of the rebellion. He was responsible for the decision that that part of the State should not secede from the Union. Soon after the secession of the older part of the State the newly-elected Governor Pierpont received authority from President Lincoln to raise troops, and the government sent down eight regiments to the newly created State. Next year Congress recognized West Virginia, which was admitted into the western portion of Virginia in line for the Union Governor Pierpont played an important part in the war.

Chief Executive Leaves Capital Tonight For Millbury And Worcester Celebrations.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

The objectives point of the present trip is Worcester, where he is to deliver an address tomorrow before a big convention of railroad men assembled from many parts of the United States, Canada and Mexico. The President will go first to the town of Millbury, a short distance from Worcester, where he is to spend tomorrow forenoon at the home of his aunt, Miss Della C. Torrey. From Millbury he will proceed to Worcester, where he will be met by a military escort and will be furnished through the streets of Worcester to the convention hall. In addition to the President, the speakers of the day will include Governor Dummer of Massachusetts, the presidents of several of the New England railroad systems and the heads of nearly all of the international and national organizations of railroad employees.

NEWS EVENTS OF THE COMING WEEK

Republican Convention in Indiana And Anticipated Decisions By Supreme Court Will Claim Attention.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, D. C., April 2.—It is being said again that the Supreme Court, when it reconvenes Monday after the Easter recess, will hand down its decision in the case of the American Tobacco Company, which involves the legality of trade agreements as distinct from antitrust suits. Monday has also been assigned by the Supreme Court as the day for hearing arguments in the Missouri rate cases. These cases are the most important in the history of the Interstate Commerce Commission, involving as they do the power conferred upon the commission by the Hepburn law to fix rates where railroads are found to be overcharging.

During the week President Taft will deliver addresses at the dedication of the new million-dollar home of the International Bureau of American Republics, at the dedication of the Carnegie Library at Howard University and at the annual dinner of the League of Republican State Clubs, to be given Saturday night at the Arlington Hotel.

Early in the week town and city elections will be held in Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and a number of other States. Special interest attaches to the results of the election in Illinois, Michigan and other States where local option is the chief issue. The big event of the week in political circles, however, will be the Republican State convention in Indiana, to nominate candidates for the State offices to be filled at the fall election and to adopt a platform. Senator Beveridge, one of the insurgents who voted against the tariff bill, will be the chief speaker for the platform and the situation is identical with that in half a dozen other States of the West where the State platforms cannot ignore the tariff bill without repudiating many of their own senators and representatives.

Events of interest in naval circles will include the placing in commission of the formidable battleships North Dakota and Delaware and the launching of the torpedo boat destroyer Pauline. The last-named event is fixed to take place Saturday at the yards of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company at Quincy, Mass. Other matters that will figure in the news of the week will include the Earl Grey musical and dramatic competitions at Toronto, the annual Conference on Education in the South at Little Rock, the Texas Conservation Congress at Fort Worth, the meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science in Philadelphia, and the sale of the Verkes art collection in New York.

The cable news will tell of the reception of ex-President Roosevelt in Rome and the travels of his party in northern Italy. In Copenhagen former Minister of the Interior Hager is to be placed on trial on charges connected with the notorious Albert trials, which a year or more ago resulted in the fall of the Danish cabinet. Saturday is the date set for the inauguration of the Empress Augusta memorial on the Mount of Olives by Prince Etel Frederick, second son of the German Emperor.

NO SEVENTEEN-YEAR LOCUSTS THIS YEAR

University Expert Says Farmers of Wisconsin Need Not Fear Pest For Five Years.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., April 2.—No "seventeen-year locusts" will appear in Wisconsin this year, according to a statement of Prof. J. G. Sanders, entomologist at the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture, in response to numerous inquiries from anxious fruit growers. In 1915 Prof. Sanders says a scattering brood will appear throughout the state, and again in 1919 a few of those insects will be seen. In 1922 a numerous brood may be expected in the southern part of the state, and another scattering brood in 1923. Fruit growers need not be apprehensive of serious damage from these insects, however, before 1922.

It is generally known among fruit growers that considerable damage may be caused by the female cicada in cutting young branches and twigs of trees when laying eggs. It is not advisable for this reason to plant a young orchard within a year or two previous to the appearance of a large brood. Among fruit trees the apple and pear, and among forest trees the oak and hickory are most severely attacked by the locusts.

BELOIT POLICEMAN WILL BE TRIED ON CHARGE OF MURDER

In the Second Degree or Manslaughter in the Third—Released on $5,000 Bail—Hearing April 14.

Charged with murder in the second degree, Patrolman Frederick E. Juvryn, the Beloit policeman who is alleged to have caused the death of John Hayes last Thursday evening, was arrested yesterday afternoon but later released on $5,000 bail. His preliminary hearing will be held April 14, at ten a. m.

The warrant was served after the coroner's jury had conducted an exhaustive examination of a number of eye witnesses to the assault and had brought in a verdict charging Juvryn with having unlawfully caused Hayes' death. Without exception, all the witnesses testified to the weight of evidence against the accused policeman made any other course impossible.

Eleven eye witnesses, which includes the girl whom Juvryn claimed was assaulted by Hayes, and the two physicians who conducted the autopsy, gave their testimony before the coroner's jury yesterday. District Attorney Fisher conducted the examination while Juvryn was represented by Attorney M. G. Jeffers of this city and John C. Hood of Beloit and the Hayes brothers by Attorney John H. Clark of Beloit.

Those witnesses examined, most of whom saw the affray, were: William Morrison, colored; G. C. Weber, of the wholesale grocery firm of Chesbrough, Moss & Co.; Miss Jennie Leard, whom Juvryn claimed Hayes had assaulted; Isaac F. Calman, who stood at the intersection station at the time of the shooting; L. C. Henderson, another eye witness; Patrick McKee, gate tender for the St. P. Ry., who was present at the fray; Dennis Lawler, bartender at Hansen's saloon, who saw the latter part of the fight; Carl Henderson, who saw the beginning and end of the trouble; Louis Jones of South Beloit; George Hurd, night man at the Carlton hotel; and Drs. A. C. Helm and H. O. Delaney, who were called on to describe Hayes' injuries.

Stories Agree.

Upon all the main points, the stories of the witnesses agreed. In brief, it was as follows: At six o'clock Hayes, who had been drinking, came out of the Carlton hotel, and seeing Miss Leard, whom he knew, asked if he could walk with her. Miss Leard, who said that she knew Hayes was harmless, claimed that she was not frightened. While the two were waiting on the crossing for a freight train to pass, Juvryn, who was standing in front of the intersection station, hurried across the street, and after a few words with Miss Leard, seized her by the neck and struck Hayes a number of blows over the head. Hayes attempted to ward off the blows with a light stick but did not try to injure the officer. Then Juvryn pulled out his revolver and fired three times.

The physicians who testified, described the wounds, stating that there were no bullet wounds on the head, neither was the skull fractured but that "death" could be and was caused by such wounds as were inflicted by Juvryn's cane about the head and the bullet wounds in the leg.

Out On $5,000 Bond.

Police Officer Juvryn is out on a bail bond of $5,000 given by Joshua Foster, who was one of the coroner's jury and Alderman Joseph Juvryn, brother of the officer. The preliminary hearing will be Monday. The defense offered no testimony before the coroner's jury. While it is true that sentiment is greatly against the officer he will attempt to show that he believed he had cause to assault Hayes and that when he did the shooting he thought he was being threatened with bodily injury.

The dead man's mother, who has been feeble, had a sinking spell last night and the report got out that she had died but she survives the shock very well.

The funeral of Mr. Hayes will be held from St. Peter's Catholic church in South Beloit at two o'clock Sunday afternoon.

GRAND TEMPLAR GAVE TEMPERANCE ADDRESS

J. M. Skinner Delivered Prohibition Speech Before Anti-Saloon Workers Last Night.

At Good Templars hall on South Main street last evening a temperance meeting was held, a large number of the temperance workers of the city, including the members of the local lodge I. O. G. T. being present. Frank O. Humphrey, Chief Templar of People's lodge of this city presided at the meeting and J. P. Carlo gave a short speech. The address of the evening was delivered by J. M. Skinner, Grand Chief Templar of Wisconsin. This evening Mr. Skinner will speak in the open at the Corn Exchange and tomorrow will give a talk at the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. He will take part in the evening service at the Methodist church.

Mr. Skinner gave a splendid talk last evening, outlining the prohibition work in this country and European nations. Figures were given to prove his statements.

In brief his speech was as follows: Three years ago there were only three states under prohibition, Maine, Kansas and North Dakota. During the past three years six states have been added to the "dry" list—Georgia, Alabama, Oklahoma, Mississippi, Tennessee, and North Carolina. Four-fifths of Texas is "dry." Indiana has 73 out of 92 counties on the "dry" list. Kentucky, Florida and several other states are nearly up to prohibition mark. In Wisconsin the influence of the temperance wave has been felt. Half our territory in Wisconsin is free from the saloon. Burnett county has not a single saloon and ten of our County seats are without saloons.

The national drink bill, which is the true gauge of the drink habit, shows a large shrinkage during recent years. The amount of whiskey withdrawn for consumption during the past three years was:

1907—136,135,762 gallons.
1908—121,478,431 gallons.
1909—116,650,165 gallons.

Beer also shows a decrease. The figures for the past two years are:

1908—58,747,680 barrels.
1909—56,305,197 barrels.

Party states showed a decrease in the output of beer last year and only six showed a small increase. The average was 4.14 per cent but in Wisconsin it was 6.27 per cent, due largely to the increased demand from other states for beer.

The main progress towards sobriety was noticeable in other countries. Iceland and Finland are now under prohibition. The English budget, which raised the tax on spirits from $2.62 to $3.33 per gallon, has caused a big slump in the consumption of whiskey and a corresponding decrease of crime. Germany is now on the war path against the use of alcoholic beverages.

The Good Templar movement had taken a wonderful hold in the Fatherland where they now have 60,000 members. The next international lodge meeting will be held in Hamburg, Germany, in June 1911, and the city council had already voted $2,000 marks, (about $3,000) towards the entertainment of the Good Templars who will flock there from all parts of the globe. It is hard to imagine the council at Milwaukee making such a stand, but the Cream City may in time rise to the occasion.

BRUIN'S FREE SUPPER.

Experience of a Camping Party in Yellowstone Park.

In the Yellowstone park all wild animals are allowed to roam as they will, and it is against the law to shoot them. Some of these animals have become very tame and do not look on man as an enemy. In fact, the bears seem to think the hotels built there are for their convenience, as they visit the garbage cans nightly for their meals. Even tiny chipmunks will stand and scold people as they pass by on the road, and such little things as they are they live in style on grain they steal from the hotel stables.

One night a party camped near one of the pretty ravines, and, being tired from a day's tramp, they had early gone into their tents to sleep—all except the boy, who enjoyed slumbering in a sleeping bag with the stars for a roof.

Early in the night they were aroused by a noise of falling pans in the kitchen wagon. Those who were not afraid rushed out and discovered a big black bear calmly eating his supper from the provisions. Not being allowed to shoot him, one grabbed a whip, another a broom, and they flourished these weapons about, frightened and grunting, Bruin chimedly wandered away, when suddenly there was a flyover grunting from the bear, accompanied by an unearthly yell. Mr. Bruin in his hurried flight had stepped on the unnoticed outdoor sleeper, frightening him so much that afterward he slept under the tent roof.—Detroit Free Press.

Didn't Know Beans.

A young woman was talking in a restaurant. "You see," she was saying, "it was my first experience in cooking beans. We are so fond of them I wanted to be sure and have enough, so I ordered three pounds at the corner grocer's. This looked about the right amount, and I put them on the range and left them to boil tender. When I went into the kitchen again the range was covered with beans, so was the floor, and out of the kettle poured a steady stream of beans. I took part of them out, added more water and again left them. If you'll believe it I had to take out three more large portions of beans before the original mass became manageable. So I'm not ordering beans just yet even at a restaurant."—New York Sun.

OTTO SCHUNEMAN IS IN TROUBLE AGAIN

Man Who Sold Rented Typewriter Arrested Here on Charge of Hobbling Restaurant at Clinton, Ia.

Otto A. Schuneman, who was arrested on Dec. 13 last for selling a typewriter he had rented at Koebe's music store and who was subsequently enabled by his father's assistance to settle with the various parties concerned and pay a fine and costs amounting to $20 in municipal court, is in trouble again.

Acting on advice received from William Lorenz, head of the police department at Clinton, Iowa, Chief Appleby arrested the young man on Milwaukee street last evening and placed him in the lock-up pending the arrival of Clinton officers. The charge against him this time is concerned with the alleged theft of $10 from a cash register in a restaurant at Clinton on March 31. The proprietor, a man by the name of Kehoe, claims that he employed Schuneman to work nights in his place of business and that on Thursday evening of this week the new member of his working force dipped into the till and made his get away.

The erstwhile Janesville resident was neither astounded nor indignant when the chief laid a heavy hand upon his shoulder. One of his first questions was: "When are they coming after me?" Later, however, he professed to know nothing about the charge of larceny. But in response to the chief's inquiries he finally explained that business being very quiet, he lay down for a nap on the night in question, after first taking the precaution to remove some silver and two $5 bills from the cash register. The proprietor found him asleep and was very indignant. They had some words and Schuneman said "he would leave if that was the way Mr. Kehoe felt about it." So he put the silver back in the register but never thought of the bills again until he reached De Kalb. It was just pure thoughtlessness on his part.

Since his departure from this city the man's wife and infant child have been living at the county house and the wife has been able to earn a little extra money by her work. Mr. Schuneman, it has since been learned, visited her yesterday and suggested that she let him have any extra cash she might have about her person. It appears that soon after the local court had decided to be lenient on account of his wife and infant child, who could ill afford it, and advanced the money to settle and meet the fine, Schuneman sold a stove and other chattels belonging to his father-in-law at one of the local second-hand stores. When questioned about this transaction he said: "Well, the old man was in pretty small business making a fuss about a little thing like that."

If You Can't See Well See Scholler

Some eyes are not normal, and consequently the sight is defective. In order to see there is a constant effort to bring the eye as near to normal as possible. This puts a great strain upon the ciliary muscles and suspensory ligaments, for they are the only means of adjustment the eye has, and the harm they suffer is sometimes not to be overcome. Nor is this all. The abnormal eye creates conditions that react on the physical state, and so children in school may appear dull and inattentive, nervous and hysterical, all of which may be due to defective eyes, and which might under competent direction be remedied by the use of properly fitted glasses.

HOT CAMPAIGN OVER LICENSE IN MONROE

Both Sides Fighting Desperately to Win and Saloon Element Are Facing a Crisis.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Monroe, Wis., April 2.—Monroe is in the midst of a heated license campaign. Interest in the contest of two mayorality candidates is overshadowed by the fight between the license and no-license elements with the result that the saloons are facing the most critical period in the thirty years that the city has been wet. The city has a prosperous brewery and twenty-four saloons and the influence for years past has controlled in municipal elections and while there is little danger of the saloons being wiped out, the drys are putting in a vast amount of energy and no little money in the fight which they declare is going to have startling results. Both sides are using much newspaper space, and a two weeks' campaign conducted here by Capt. J. H. Hoff, who is being followed up by other temperance meetings. Further Mr. J. Ward of Deloit was brought here for a meeting and many Catholics were in evidence in the large audience that he addressed.

Mayorality Contest.
The contest for mayor is between W. J. Knight, who is a candidate for a second term, and Dr. C. W. Bennett, a former member of the council who is seeking to interest the people in permanent street improvements, something the city sorely needs and which the present administration has entirely abandoned. The contest for mayor has no connection with the license fight.

Six Years' Sentence.
Harry Kimbrick, the young man who met a school teacher at Bill and threatened her with a revolver, was sentenced to six years in the prison at Waupun today by Judge George Grimm. Kimbrick admitted that he deserved punishment and threw himself upon the mercy of the court. J. H. Mohr, who stole a trunk from the home of Abraham Olson, in York, and containing $385 in money, after spending the night at the Olson home, also pleaded for the mercy of the court, and was sentenced to two years' imprisonment at Waupun. Sheriff Hall goes to Waupun with the prisoners on Monday.

May Be New Industry for India.
Very little, if any, cottonseed is pressed for oil in India. Interest is just beginning to be taken in the possibilities of an indigenous industry for the production of edible cottonseed oil. It is estimated that the quantity of cottonseed available for such a purpose is about 1,500,000 tons a year. India, being next to the United States as the greatest producer of raw cotton.

MAYOR IS HISSED FROM HALL.

Big Crowd at Mass Meeting Show Resentment at Pittsburgh's Chief.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Apr. 2.—One of the most sensational incidents in the history of Pittsburgh graft and vice occurred at Exposition hall here when Mayor William A. Magee was hissed and hunted from the hall by 3,000 citizens who resented the mayor's intrusion as well as his attempt to slur the investigation.

It was with difficulty that an assault on the mayor was prevented by some of the cooler heads as he made his way hurriedly out of the big hall on the arm of Director of Public Safety John Morin, who was, until appointed to his present position, a saloon keeper of Pittsburgh.

The meeting was one called some days since by the Voters' league to discuss the vice of this city.

$30,000 PAID TO THAW GIRLS.

Hartbridge Swears He Handled That Much "Hush Money."

New York, Apr. 2.—Hush money in the amount of $30,000 was paid by Clifford W. Hartbridge to a selected portion of the feminine acquaintances of Harry K. Thaw, according to Mr. Hartbridge's own testimony in his suit to recover $92,082 for his services in the first Thaw trial.

Hartbridge said he met 200 girls in Mrs. Susan Merrill's apartments. Mrs. Merrill was a witness against Thaw in his latest fight to prove his sanity. The largest payment alleged was $5,000 to a Mrs. Reed, with whom Thaw is said to have lived, and who appeared in the testimony as "Mrs. Thaw." The hearings will be continued on Monday.

"My husband came into my room when Dr. Wendell was paying a professional call," she said, "I must say in recognition of truth and justice to my own character, and to Dr. Wendell, the dead man, that my husband's statement is not correct."

New Modern Awings

Suitable for Residences, Flats, Office and Hotel Buildings, Factories, Hospitals and Institutions of all kinds

The attention of those using awnings is called to what is acknowledged by many architects, builders, and those in charge buildings, the greatest improvement in applying awnings, to residences or business buildings ever invented. Its simplicity of operation and absence of parts liable to get out of order, and the fact that any one with ordinary tools can put them up are points that will recommend it to any one that has ever had any experience with the old style awning.

They do not stick or jam and can be raised or lowered with out trouble or inconvenience to the operator.

They are especially recommended because of the ease and rapidity with which they can be taken down, and the small amount of room required to store them when not in season.

Should the necessity arise the covering can be replaced at one third the expense of the old style awnings.

Owing to its construction the material is at all times tightly stretched; no creases or folds can form and collect soot.

Its superiority over any other style of awning is that they do not disfigure or detract from the appearance of any building, leaving the entire window free when up; they shut out no light from the room, even when down, and being open on all sides, admit fresh air, which is very essential.

The fact that they are stormproof is in their favor for no wind no matter how strong, can disarrange or destroy them even when down, no necessity of rushing to the window and raising them every time a storm arises. Being noiseless at all times even if left down at night, they will cause no annoyance or worry in case of sudden storm or wind. All iron parts are galvanized, which makes them perfectly rust-proof.

If you contemplate using awnings this season, drop us a card and we will have our representative call and demonstrate to you we have the best and cheapest awning on the market.

The Overland The Car Which Won the Two Severest Tests

The hardest road that a car ever travels is the road to enduring success. On the road, no other car ever equaled the Overland record. The steepest climb that a car ever made is to the dominant place now held by the Overland. Those are the real tests of motor cars—the two supreme ordeals. And, from a hundred rivals, the Overland won them both.

THE ONLY REAL TEST

The success of a car in the hands of its users is the only real test of an automobile.

What matters the records of cars specially built, and driven by the rarest of experts? Your car will be a stock model—its driver, at best, a comparative novice. What you want to know is what stock cars will do in the hands of men like you.

The sales records show what Overlands have done—the every-day models in the hands of every-day men. One car has sold others, and the others sold others, until a pretty large share of the demand of the country is centered around this remarkable car.

The 380 Overlands put out the first year sold 4,075 Overlands the next. And those 4,075 Overlands brought orders from dealers for 16,000 Overlands for this season's delivery before the new models came out.

When a man bought an Overland he said to his fellows: "Here is the one simple, the one trouble-proof car. By all means, get one like it." And others ordered cars like it—about twice as fast as we could supply them.

HOW TO MEASURE MERIT

It is quite impossible—even for experts —to judge any car by description. An utter failure and a proved success may seem much alike in the catalog. They may look much alike on the floor.

Many a car has killed its trade in one season, because of some hidden faults. The cars were beautiful, and their specifications—part by part—compared well with the best of cars. But there were errors and weaknesses which the maker himself had failed to discover. And, when those defects developed, owners said to non-owners, "Never buy a car like mine."

The only safe guide in buying a car is the record of that car in the hands of its users. Claims and descriptions may be very misleading. The troublesome car and the trouble-proof look much alike in print.

They who best know what you want to know are the men who have run the cars. Choose the car which sells best where best known. Buy the car which outsells all the others where there has been a year of comparison. For owners are wise in these days, and they don't remain long mistaken.

They who measure merit in this way, and who know all the facts, must invariably choose the Overland. That is the meaning which our amazing success has in your choice of a car.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

The local option question, which is to be submitted to the voters of Janesville next Tuesday, while not likely to carry, is important, because it furnishes an opportunity to test public sentiment, and this is worth knowing, for if the next legislature passes a county option law Rock County will be one of the first in the state to adopt it, and its enforcement in the cities of Beloit and Janesville is dependent on the law and order sentiment expressed in these two cities.

The Gazette has been slow to favor county option for the reason that it enables the rural voter to foist on the cities a law which he is not able to help enforce, and conditions are worse than under wholesome regulation, but the attitude of good government on the question of local government has been a strong argument in favor of their retirement from business. Any city which is cursed with a blight which can not be too speedily removed.

The question is broader than prohibition sentiment for it has to do with law and order, and therefore appeals to every thoughtful citizen, regardless of creed or political affiliation. The prohibition party as an organization, has less to do with the tidal wave of temperance reform than either the republican or democratic parties, and they have nothing to do with it as political organizations. It is simply a crystallizing of public sentiment against an evil which has become a menace to the country on account of lawlessness.

This is more apparent in the south than in the north, because the movement started in the south and has been more thorough. The old democratic state of Georgia is on the dry flat with no thanks to the prohibition party, which only cast one thousand votes at the last election. The old time bourbon democrats headed the movement in the interests of law and order. It made no difference with their thirst, and they drank as much today as they ever did, but not in the saloons, for they are a thing of the past.

The package and bottle trade of the south is a revelation, but there is no drunkenness on the streets, and the people are law-abiding citizens, and the law is rigidly enforced. The man who runs a "blind tiger" soon finds himself in the chain gang, making roads for the state, and when his sentence expires he takes up some other line of work. Southern justice, in dealing with this class of law-breakers, might be adapted to good advantage in the north. The roads in Florida are largely built by convict labor and many of the turpentine stills are equipped with the same forces.

The people of Janesville may be surprised at the strength of the prohibition vote. It will represent vastly more than the prohibition party for the large majority of temperance people are not allied with the organization. Then there are many men who drink occasionally, who are opposed to the American saloon, and would like to see it put out of business.

Neither should the fact be overlooked that the generation just entering the field of action is differently conditioned from the one preceding it. The day has gone by when the social glass adds anything to a man's stature or reputation, and in the railroad world, as well as in many lines of business the drink habit is a bar to employment.

This wholesome restraint has tided many a young man over and placed him squarely on his feet in the ranks of total abstainers. These boys are opposed to the saloon and will not hesitate to vote against it.

Then too, more men are reforming today than ever before. They have discovered that it don't pay, as did a well known novelist who related his experience in a late magazine. He said:

"It should be borne in mind, that I am not dealing with confirmed drunkards, drinking that has become an organic necessity. Inebriety is a disease, as much so as tuberculosis, and must be so considered and treated."

"I am dealing with the custom of drinking as it is practiced by the great majority of men who drink at all. And, for that very reason, I think that testimony like mine should be suggestive and valuable."

"I have absolutely no prejudice against the custom; and yet, though I never abused it, socially speaking, and am still a worshiper of Dionysus (from afar), I do not hesitate to declare that moderate drinking does not pay."

"I have tried it. I know. No one can tell me anything about his joys and satisfactions. I have also tried total abstinence. As a consequence, I feel better, sleep better, work better, enjoy life more, and have increased my usefulness as a citizen."

"Drinking is a pleasure that may be innocent, but must be paid for, like sitting up late to play bridge or to finish a novel; a recreation with something to be said for it, like speeding an automobile, exciting, but dangerous; an indulgence, like overwork, which sometimes seems necessary, but is seldom worth the price. Drinking does not pay."

This man's experience is the experience of many other thinking men. There is nothing spasmodic about their reform, but it is genuine and a power for good. The prohibition vote will combine a number of forces—men who are not talking and who make no loud professions, but who are intensely interested in bettering conditions.

If drinking was the only form of intemperance, this old world would soon become a paradise, but there are other excesses and one of them recently broke loose in the lower house of congress when a handful of insurgents allied themselves with the democrats to humiliate the party which had honored them.

These men were intoxicated with rage, and consumed with anger against the man whom they had selected to preside as speaker. In their blind hatred they overlooked the fact that the people of the country knew nothing and care less about the rules of the house than they do about Halley's comet.

The constituency which they so poorly represented, have no grievance against Speaker Cannon and know nothing about Cannonism as an issue. They are republicans who believe that the party which they represent is infinitely better qualified to administer government than the democratic party and their first concern is to perpetuate the party in office.

Many of them are old enough to remember the last four years of Cleveland's administration and they dread to see the experience repeated.

This fight over Speaker Cannon is the silliest farce that ever engaged the attention of intelligent men and the participants might better have gone off on a two weeks' spree.

Equally silly is the much exploited notion that the tariff is responsible for the high cost of living. The tariff has nothing to do with prices of meat or food products of any kind and these represent in large degree the cost of living.

The nation is passing through an era of intemperate agitation and the watchword is disruption of every thing in sight. Parties are disorganized, business disturbed, corporations criticized, and general unrest prevails.

Four years of old fashioned hard times is necessary to bring many people to their senses, and the outlook is promising for this kind of a catastrophe. All that is needed is a few more insurgent movements in congress to put the democrats in control, and when this happens the tariff will look like thirty cents and the business of the country will look worse.

The American saloon is a bad proposition, but widespread intemperance of thought and action is more difficult to regulate. An era of common sense will dawn when we have more time for sober thought and that time is rapidly approaching unless we call a halt.

Party loyalty may be a by-word but the success of the republic depends on party organization and personality. The unorganized masses never conduct anything to a successful issue.

THE UTILITIES ARE ALARMED.

The Second Ward Nor the City Will Not Lose One Dollar.

Neither the second ward nor the City of Janesville will lose one dollar of the taxable value of the Gas Company by the reason of the investigation pending, as these utilities well know.

If these companies are so sure of having their income so much increased and their taxable value reduced, why are they so strenuously fighting any investigation, and engaging the best legal talent in the country in an effort to stop such investigation, and attempting to lead you to believe that it is for your best interest?

When the Water Company and the New Gas Light Company became alarmed, the citizens and its tax payers need not fear, as you all know how these utilities have guarded their interests in the past. Guarded them, according to their own figures, by collecting from you last year $108,088.00, besides compelling you to construct part of the water works system, and to bend to its demands, reasonable or otherwise, a practice which the water company has carried on for the past 23 years without interruption or interruption, when according to our city charter they are obliged to construct, operate and maintain their system.

The Railroad Commission decided in the Madison Gas and Electric case that not one dollar of the going value or franchise of these companies can be taken into consideration in fixing rates, yet they are trying to make you believe that it is a valuable asset for rate fixing, but worthless for taxation purposes notwithstanding the legislature has enumerated this, the going value as one of the properties of the utility for taxation purposes.

They are even intimating that the Mayor and members of the Common Council, all men and women, who dared to endorse the rate of interest, are in violation of the city charter, when not one man who signed that endorsement was a member of the Common Council when the ordinance was passed, neither was I City Attorney.

Mr. Voter, go to the polls next Tuesday and re-elect me to the office of city attorney, and by so doing assist in the regulation of these utilities and securing for yourselves and the city reasonable charges and rates.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE, M.D.

A MODERN ST. FRANCIS.

Some of the newspapers take occasion to gibe at James Eads Howe and his "holiness convention."

Howe is one of the remarkable men of this generation. He is the grandson of James Eads, the great engineer who devised and built the Eads bridge at St. Louis and the Mississippi river jetty.

James Eads Howe inherited the fortune his famous grandfather won, a fortune of several millions.

He gave away every cent of it. Though he was comparatively poor at the time of his inheritance, he refused to touch any part of the money, assigning it over to trustees for the benefit of humanity.

That was several years ago. Meantime he works as a common laborer, carrying his dinner bucket to and fro, associating constantly with workmen and seeking to aid them in every way.

Once a year he calls a convention. Some who attend are "holiness," attracted by the free banquet which is a part of Howe's program. But many others are self-respecting men out of employment.

Howe's motto is, "The manliest job for the jobless man."

He is trying to induce the government to establish employment agencies in the large cities, after the manner of Germany and France; also, in so far as possible, to colonize poor families on cheap lands.

Who can deny the worthiness of such aims?

Like Tolstoy, who labored at the peasant's task in peasant garb that he might teach and guide, so James Eads Howe lives the workman's life, does the daily task of the common laborer, that he may be in touch with those he yearns to help.

He is a man of culture, is modest, and there is about him no mark of the crank.

For years Mr. Eads has lived up to his ideals.

It may not be your way of doing things or mine, but it is Christlike. St. Francis threw his wealth on the altar of St. Peter's and took upon himself the vow of poverty. James Eads Howe has laid his fortune on the altar of humanity and lives a life of poverty that he may help his fellow brethren.

If all of us lived up to our ideals as sincerely as this man, heaven would come down to earth in a day.

IMPORTANT MATTERS WERE DISCUSSED AT MEETING OF BOARD

Industrial and Commercial Club Decided Questions of Importance to the Whole City.

That Janeville will be built up, now and hereafter, by the united action of the citizens generally appears to be the key note to the plans of the new Industrial and Commercial Club as expressed at their directors' meeting last evening. The seed sown by Mr. Wilson of Des Moines, in his recent address, has already sprouted and the vision and ideas as to the possibilities of the city will be followed out closely.

One of the first matters brought to the attention of the directors was the proposition presented by Peter L. Myers, Mr. Myers wishes to reconstruct the first floor of his theatre, to place some five hundred theatre chairs of the latest pattern and new stage model, with four aisles, instead of three as the theatre is now arranged. The two plans to have the main floor raised six inches to level with the present "boxes", raising the seats in the first four rows so that they are nearer the level of the stage and otherwise improve and re-fit the theatre.

The cost of such changes as contemplated until an expense of some $2,500. Mr. Myers asked the support of the club in arranging for a subscription performance at the opening of the coming theatrical season which would in a way help defray the expense of making the contemplated changes. Mr. Myers has in mind the production of "The Girl in the Taxi", one of the prevalent musical farces of the present season's successes in the New York date.

The matter was discussed fully and it was suggested that the committee named, composed of H. H. Hilsa, chairman, Amos Rehder and P. J. Monat, confer with Mr. Myers relative to the plans and be empowered to increase the membership of the committee for active work if they saw fit. It was also suggested that among the plans that Mr. Myers contemplates that the question of improving the exit into the alley on the west of the building be taken up with him.

It is customary in other cities when such improvements are contemplated by theatre owners that a subscription sale of seats at an advance of the regular house prices is held. When is the plan of Mr. Myers and when he finishes his proposed changes the local play house will be one, if not the finest in the state outside of the Milwaukee theatres. The new seats have been contracted for from the American Seating Company of Chicago and will be put in use which were replaced by the same company when the house was rebuilt in 1887. Another matter brought up for discussion was the old Parquet and Pleasant association and it was the idea of the directors that the old office of this association be conferred with a view of seeking their cooperation in making Janeville more beautiful. This association was forced to abandon its plans two years ago when the money panic came and has not since resumed active operation but it is understood that many of the subscribers to its fund, which had reached some $8,000, are anxious to have it again take up the work proposed.

As to the question of the employment of a permanent secretary it was decided to confer with Mr. Clark of Des Moines, Iowa, and invite him to come to Janeville for a conference. Mr. Clark has been Mr. Wilson's assistant in Des Moines and has been highly recommended to the directors as an ideal man for the permanent secretary. Mr. Clark was instructed to confer with him and arrange for his coming to Janeville to talk over the position.

Another interesting feature was the decision of the directors to meet once a week at luncheon at their own expense, at which time matters of importance could be discussed during the lunch hour without any serious inconvenience to the personal business of the members. Later it was suggested that monthly meetings of all the members of the association be held at which time the directors make a report on the work being done and contemplated, to the entire membership.

A Grand New Beauty Parlor For Janeville.

The ladies of Janeville will be pleased to learn of the entire remodeling and refurnishing of the Beauty Parlor at 121 W. Milwaukee street. They will be known as the Comfort Beauty Parlor. They are already being exceedingly well patronized. For the past four years they have been conducted by Miss Isabel Roberts, an expert in hair dressing, shampooing and scalp treatment, electrical facial and body massaging and the removing of superfluous hair, dermatology, and manicuring. She is an artist in her line and every woman who would keep young and pretty will want to patronize this new beauty parlor. It is a handsomely furnished place and visitors will receive a cordial welcome. It is equipped with the very latest appliances known to the art of the professional beautician and to Janeville women and visitors alike it will undoubtedly prove a very popular place.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to thank the many friends and neighbors who helped us at the time of the fire and also, MISS L. WYLLIE and J. R. THOMPSON AND FAMILY.

TWO CONVENTIONS MAY BE SECURED FOR COMING YEAR

State Meeting of the Eagles and of United Spanish War Veterans
May Select Janeville As Meeting
Place for 1911.

Indications point to the fact that during the year nineteen eleven Janeville may entertain the state convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and also of the Spanish War Veterans if the plans made by the local lodges of these two orders are carried out. The state gathering of the Fraternal Order of Eagles usually lasts for three or four days and brings to the city holding the convention, several thousand delegates and visitors. It is to be held in Sheboygan this summer and indications point to the fact that there will be a lively light for the local lodge for 1911. The local lodge will convene for a strenuous effort to bring the convention to Janeville.

The Janeville Athletic club have arranged for a benefit boxing carnival on Tuesday night next, for this purpose, at which time four excellent contestants have been arranged for. "Cassidy" meets "Young" Duff, "at" catch weights, Al Hammer of Chicago meets Jack Ryan of Fond du Lac at 123 pounds, Earl Denning of Chicago meets Freddie Andrews of Milwaukee at 123 pounds, and Billy Morehead of Evanston at 118 pounds.

The state gathering of the Spanish War Veterans is usually held on the fourth of July at which time a sham battle is held. At Fond du Lac last year some thirty thousand people enjoyed the big parade, the sham battle and the general open meetings of the order. Janeville was offered the convention for this year but was not ready to take the offer up here next year.

CAN THE WATER COMPANY ANSWER THIS QUESTION?

The Water company would lead you to believe that I am responsible for the abandoning of its contract and franchise with the city and accept from the State an indeterminate permit and that it will be the gain by so doing. Then why did the Water company wait until I had commenced this investigation, before taking this step?

DID CROOKS LOOK OVER JANEVILLE FOR A GOOD HAUL?

"Bloomington Red," the Famous Yeggman, and Silk Thieves Were in This City Just Before the Rockford Robbery.

Did "Bloomington Red" and his pals come to Janeville and look over the city with an idea of making a good haul at some of the stores here and, becoming frightened, go to Rockford and make away with valuable silks from the Cutting store in that city?

It is known that the leader of the silk thief gang, "Bloomington Red," was in Janeville this week. He and a partner visited here and were identified by a man who knows him well, who immediately notified Chief of Police Appleby of his presence in the city.

Officers were immediately detailed to look for and arrest the noted crook but they followed a false lead and in the meantime "Red" made good his escape and left with his partner in the direction of Rockford where he undoubtedly "did the job" at the Cutting store.

Janeville has not had a big store robbery since the silk robbery at the Rockford store several years ago, and in the meantime the police force has been increased and extra precautions have been taken to guard against thieves. "Bloomington Red" is an old offender and well known to Chief Appleby.

The game of the silk thieves is to make a haul and vanish, their product being shipped to Chicago to some of the numerous "fence" where it is disposed of easily by expert crooks who make this their part of the business. It is thought that after the Rockford robbery the thieves made their escape by way of Freeport.

INSURGENTS AGAIN WON BRIDGE GAME

Defeated the Regulars by 238 Points

In Contest at Elks' Club-Rooms

Last Night.

Victory again perched upon the shoulders of the "insurgents" in the second bridge whist tournament with the "Regulars" held at the Elks' club rooms last evening. Preceding the contest, a delicious six o'clock dinner was served at the Grand hotel. The play was between five teams of two men each, on a side, and while three teams of "Regulars" won their games, the other two were so overwhelmingly defeated as to offset the gain and establish the victory of loss at 238 points. The winners are mentioned in the following detailed account of the contest: Harris and Carl ("Regulars") defeated Hanson and McGee; Richardson and McGee defeated Haggart and King; Burroughs and Clark defeated Ellis and Souham; and "insurgents" lost to Welsh and Stern; Holmes and Huskins lost to McGiffin and Kemmerer. The second defeat of the "Regulars" will probably renew their challenge to the losers for a tourney, with a buffet luncheon to be served to the entire lodge as the price of defeat.

MASONS ON STRIKE FOR AN EIGHT-HOUR DAY AT OLD WAGES

Between Twenty and Thirty Members of Union Demand Reduction in Hours of Work.

There will be no building operations carried on in this city unless the contractors accede to the demands made by union masons for an eight-hour day at the former nine-hour day wages, which is $4.50. From present indications, this seems to be the status of affairs as regards the spring building in Janeville.

On March the union masons prepared their working code for the year, in which they made the above demand for an eight-hour day which practically means an advance in wages. They were to receive a reply from the contractors on April 1, and from the new scale, if the demands were granted, was to go into effect on that date. The contractors however, refused to comply with the demand and the masons are out to a man, working as all the masons in the city numbering between twenty and thirty, belonging to the union. It is, of course, too early to predict just what will result as the deadlock is only two days old, but as yet no serious inconvenience has been felt in the city at the present time and not many in prospect so that the contractors are not facing the alternative of importing non-union men to fulfill any contracts.

BURPEE OR MAXFIELD FOR CITY ATTORNEY?

It is a significant fact that over a hundred citizens, representing various professions and from many walks of life, in a spirit of patriotism and for the welfare of the city, and without personal interest on the one hand, or personal animosity on the other, joined in a call to Mr. Burpee to become a candidate for city attorney.

The city of Janeville has very important legal interests demanding attention during the term of the next city attorney. While a capable city attorney is always necessary, an especially able attorney is needed just now, until pending litigation is ended, in determining who shall be such city attorney, the voters of Janeville will consider the following questions as between the two candidates: First: misleading statements and half truths, made by or for Maxfield in support of his candidacy; precipitate and hasty action by Mr. Maxfield, involving the city in present litigation. As to fitness, it would seem as if the voter who knows the candidates could not long hesitate as to his decision. In determining this question, there is no intent to reflect upon Mr. Maxfield's character or to attack him as a man or practicing attorney. We are comparing him with Mr. Burpee in point of fitness, and are judging him as a candidate for an office carrying with it much power and responsibility. Mr. Burpee acted as city attorney for many years and rendered most valuable and acceptable service in that office. He has for years under a special study of laws relating to cities, is familiar with the city charter of Janeville and the law relating to it in a marked degree, and because of natural ability and general training, is especially well qualified to serve the city during the coming two years as city attorney.

As to upholding statements and half truths, it has been this one for illustration. It has been reiterated constantly, and with almost annoying persistence, that Mr. Maxfield committed the Janeville Street Railway Company to pay a considerable sum of money to the city. The action to which Mr. Maxfield refers has been pending a number of years, and relating to the payment of a certain portion of the expense of paying streets whereon the tracks of the street railway company. Mr. Maxfield has recently made an effort to bring the litigation to a conclusion. It has been stated that he expressed the opinion that the city could not prevail, hence his unwillingness to force the issues in the case. The simple fact is that in the purchase of the street recently condemned, the purchasers insisted that this claim, with other claims, be adjusted before the consummation of the deal. To that end, those who were selling the property arranged for the payment of this claim irrespective of the outcome in the courts, and probably Mr. Maxfield was very much surprised when one of the attorneys for the parties handed him a check for the amount. At any rate, he was in ignorance of the negotiations and the amount was paid to the city without any aid from Mr. Maxfield in bringing about the result.

The citizens of Janeville find that the city is involved in much litigation. Mr. Maxfield has much plunged ahead, seemingly, without considering the outcome. There is litigation enough pending to demand all the time of a capable attorney, and it will be the part of wisdom for the voters of Janeville next Tuesday to select a man who is fitted by ability and experience to handle such litigation. He was undoubtedly unwisely for the city attorney to run a headlong at such great speed, at least with reference to some of the matters involved, but now that such mischief has been done, we must get out of the difficulties we find to make adequate presentation of the facts to the Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, before whom the important matters are now pending.

The name of R. C. Whitney has been attached to a good many musical shows in the past, but "They Loved a Lassie," his latest production, due here next week, has achieved the greatest honor in the way of countless public liking. For five months the merits were sufficient to crowd "Match" fame, Evans and Hoey of the Whitney opera house, Chicago, which firm he was the senior member, and this in the fact of the flood of always over-history of the American stage in a run the Windy City. Strangely to say that is to the credit of few this is a musical force with a story, comedians of the last generation.

and one that has stood the chemical test of critical judgment. The plot is clean cut and logical, and the fun-making incidents are never concerned with anything to offend good taste. Geo. Arliss, the English actor who wrote the piece, has adequately shown in "They Loved a Lassie" that laughter may be made without the rough features which are so frequently frequent in current shows. Gus Sobko, Mr. Whitney's general stage manager, has added a number of sparkling musical specialties to CONSIDER BREWER'S SUCCESSOR.

Cabinet Takes No Action—Bowers is in High Favor.

Washington, Apr. 2.—The question of choosing a successor to the late Associate Justice Brewer of the supreme court was considered briefly at the cabinet meeting. As yet not the slightest hint has been received from the members of the court as to the possible necessity for a rehearing of the anti-trust or corporation tax cases, which would practically demand the appointment of a new justice who could sit on the cases in question. It is expected that President Taft will receive some intimation in the matter as soon as the court is able to speak.

Harring the complications possible in connection with the pending important suits the selection of Solicitor General Lloyd W. Bowers of Chicago to fill the vacancy is still regarded as a probability.

CARNEGIE UTTERLY UNSTRUNG.

Iron Master Has Two Fainting Spells While Dictating at Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Apr. 2.—That the long trip from coast to coast was too much for Andrew Carnegie was shown here when the ironmaster's dictation of a long statement intended for the people of Pittsburgh was twice interrupted by fainting spells. After some delay on each occasion he pluckily resumed his dictation. Mrs. Carnegie and friends were much concerned about the condition of Mr. Carnegie.

It is explained by close friends of Mr. Carnegie that he had gotten himself worked up to so high a pitch over developments in the Pittsburgh graft that by the time he reached here he was utterly unstrung.

SUSPICION JUSTIFIED.

It Was Not a Mouse the Master Heard in the Kitchen.

The late Rev. Dr. Wightman, sitting one night later than usual engrossed in the profundities of a great tome, imagined he heard a sound in the kitchen inconsistent with the cautiousness of a mouse; so, taking his candle, he proceeded to investigate the cause. His foot being heard in the passage, the servant began with much noise to rake out the fire as if preparing for bed.

"Ye're up late tonight, Mary." "I'm just rakin' the fire, sir, and gann to bed."

"That's right, Mary. I like timeous hours."

On his way back to the study he passed the coal cellar door and, turning the key, took it with him. The next morning at an early hour there was a rap at his bedroom door and a request for the key to get some coal.

"Ye're up too soon, Mary. Go back to your bed."

Half an hour later there was another knock and a similar request, in order to prepare for breakfast. "I don't want breakfast so soon, Mary. Go back to your bed."

In another half hour there was another knock, with an entreaty for the key, as it was washing day.

This was enough. He rose and handed out the key, saying, "Go and let the man out." As the preacher absently suspected, Mary's sweetheart had been imprisoned all night in the coal cellar.—London Family Herald.

Vanity Ticked.

During the early exercises of the French revolution a rabble of men and women were rioting in the streets of Paris. Lafayette appeared and ordered a young artillery officer to open fire upon them with two cannon. The officer begged the general to let him try first to persuade them to withdraw.

"It is useless to appeal to their reason," said the general.

"Certainly," answered the officer, "and it is not to their reason, but to their vanity, I would appeal."

The officer rode up to the front of the mob, doffed his cocked hat, pointed to the guns and said:

"Gentlemen will have the kindness to retire, for I am ordered to shoot down the rabble."

The street was cleared at once, for none could brook the idea of being classed with the scum of the city.

An Acute Sense of Taste.

William and Lawrence were in the habit of saving a part of their dessert from the evening dinner for consumption the next morning, and in accordance with this custom two small cakes had been placed in the cracker jar for them. William, being the first up on the following morning and being hungry, went to the jar. He found only one cake, and a large piece had been bitten out of that. Full of wrath, he went upstairs and roused his brother.

"Say," he demanded, "I want to know who took that big bite out of my cake?"

"I did," sleepily answered Lawrence. "What'd you do that for?"

"Well, when I tasted it I found it was your cake, and so I ate the other one."—Youth's Companion.

The Matter Explained.

"Why do they say 'us smart as a steel trap'?" asked the talkative boarder. "I never could see anything particularly intellectual about a steel trap."

"A steel trap is called smart," explained the elderly person in his sweetest voice, "because it knows exactly the right time to shut up."

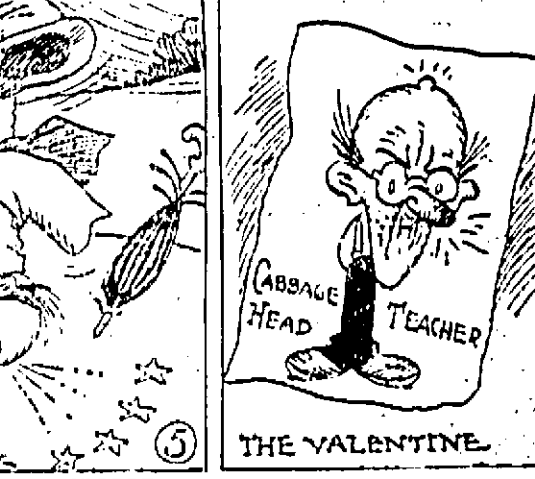

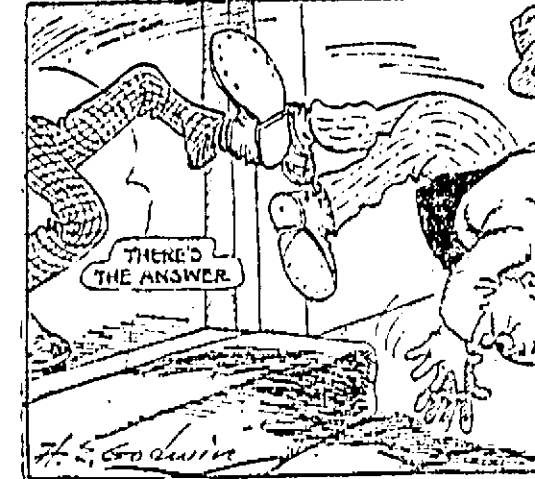

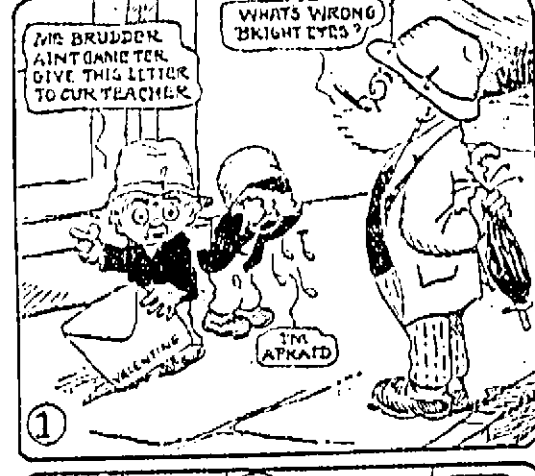

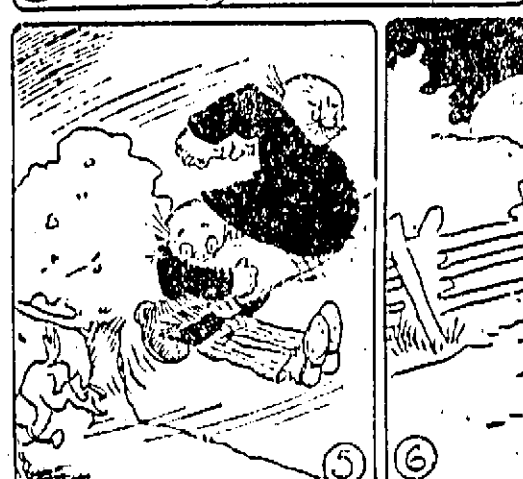

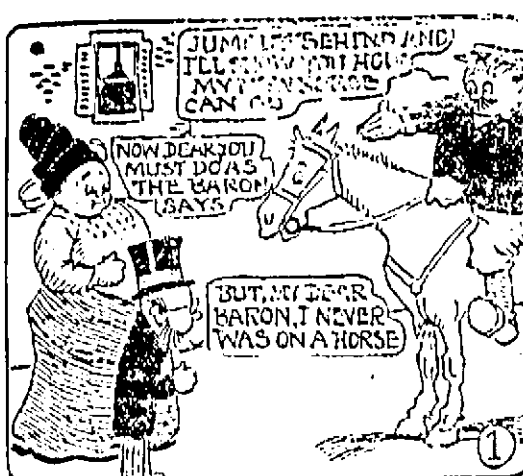

More might have been said, but in the circumstances it would have seemed undiplomatic.—London Tit-Bits.

The Similarity.

"My husband is like a rooster in one respect."

"Indeed?"

"Yes; when he gets up early he crows over it."—Judge.

CARD CATALOGUE OF LIBRARY DESCRIBED

is Greatest Aid of Librarian in Finding Books Desired by Patrons of the Library.

(By Miss Emma Wahl.)
The card catalogue is the most useful tool in the library. It is the means of placing before the reader the contents of the library in the clearest, simplest form. It enables a person to find a book of which author, title or subject is known.
If the catalogue is complete, it shows what the library has on a given subject or by a certain author. It enables authors, titles and subjects in an alphabetical and can be used like a dictionary. The call number is in red and is written in the upper left hand corner of the card. This number corresponds to the number on the back of the book and can readily be found on the shelves.
By means of the catalog, patrons can find what they are looking for without having to wait for the assistance of the librarian when she is busy. Every book in the library can be found under the name of the author and usually by title card and one or more subject cards.
The subject card is especially helpful in bringing out material under a misleading title and when a book contains information on a variety of subjects. In the latter case, the inclusive paging is given in the margin of the card.

Student Help.
During February and March the students from the Wisconsin Library school are sent out on "field work" to the libraries throughout the state wherever assistance of any kind is needed. Some go to small towns to organize libraries, some take charge of small libraries during illness or absence of a local librarian and some go to larger libraries to catalogue the books or to make needed changes. This student work is done under the supervision of instructors from the Wisconsin Library school and is in charge of the Wisconsin Library commission. This is mutually beneficial, as it gives a student two months of practical experience in a year of theoretical study and it also supplies the librarian with needed assistance.

Janesville Library Catalog.
The Janesville Library catalog is complete as far as author and title cards are concerned. Practically all subject cards were made till recent years. These are now being made and inserted in alphabetical order, thus making available the subject matter in books and chapters.

History.
During February, two students analyzed and made subject cards for the history collection, numbering about 600 volumes, so that a person wishing to know what the library contains in history, will find material under the word, "History," or under the name of the country, or under the name of some famous event, such as crusades, Spanish Armada, or the reformation. The subject, "History," is so broad that it will be followed by such subdivisions as: History, study and teaching; history, ancient; history, modern; in like manner, the history of a country may need to be divided as follows: France—history, revolution, France—history, 1789-1800.

Arbitrary decisions regarding anonymous terms have been adopted by librarians throughout the country, so that catalogs might be uniform to a certain extent. Guide cards are inserted to direct the reader from the subject to the material under the name of the author or under the name of the country, or under the name of some famous event, such as crusades, Spanish Armada, or the reformation. The subject, "History," is so broad that it will be followed by such subdivisions as: History, study and teaching; history, ancient; history, modern; in like manner, the history of a country may need to be divided as follows: France—history, revolution, France—history, 1789-1800.

A person looking for Green's "Short History of the English People" will find it not only under the author but also under the heading, "Great Britain—history." Motley's "Rise of the Dutch Republic" will be found under Motley and also under "Netherlands—history." An excellent abridgement by Rogers of this standard work has recently been placed on the shelves.
Gordon's "Reminiscences of the Civil War" will be found under the author and under "United States—history, Civil War and Reconstruction." Fisher's "Discovery of America" will be found under Fisher and also under "United States—history, discovery and colonial period. Every important chronological period of American history forms a subdivision under the main heading, as: "United States—history; United States—history, revolutionary period; United States—history, French and Indian war; United States—history, Tripoli war."

"Thwaites' Story of Wisconsin" will be found under "Wisconsin—history, Thwaites' Story of Wisconsin." Under Northwest and Pursh; "Great Plains" under West.
Sociology.
During the month of March two students made subject cards for the books in sociology, about 400 in all. There are many books in this class which are readable and popular and interesting in themselves; in addition to this, they discuss economic and social topics which every well informed person wishes to study. A few of the books analyzed are:
"Hills with the Sun," to be found under Hills, Poor, and New York City; Jane Adams, "Savage Ideas of Power," to be found under Adams, Industrial law and legislation, labor and labor classes; municipal government and chapter under child labor; Robinson's "American Legislatures and Legislative Methods" will be found under Robinson, legislative bodies.
Among the books under the heading, "United States—Expansion and Colonial Policy" will be found these recent authorities: Austin, "Steps in the Expansion of Our Territory"; Carver, "Distant Possessions"; Colquhoun, "Greater America"; Coolidge, "United States as a World Power"; Hild, "Problems of Expansion"; and Winsor, "Westward Movement."

Summary.
The catalog has now been revised and completed for the two classes, history and sociology, with the exception of a few books out of circulation. It is probable that the work will be continued by students from the library school in the following years until the catalog is complete.

Song.
Song has wielded a strange power in human history. It seduces men from their homes to the field, it consoles those they leave behind, it voices the moods of the lover, the cynic, the drunkard, the patriot, the maiden, and the grand old cowherd and scholar, lassies and children, all, all. There are songs about nearly every imaginable thing on earth, except the writing and the reading of articles.—Robert Hughes in Smith's.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, April 2, 1870.—Jottings.—Not a little news begins to be felt about this city on account of the effect of the high water on the Court street bridge. There is already considerable weight upon the arches at either end and still the stream continues to rise. Should and floating timbers of ice lodge against the structure in such a manner as to impede the current the worst results might be apprehended.

There are still many snow drifts on the wagon roads leading from this city, which horses and it difficult to plow through, but a day or two of weather like the present will mostly use them up.

The present vacation of the schools will be of two weeks duration. It has not yet been decided how long not awake to the situation. Like the man bent on getting money at any price, be it life, or love or labor, they shut their eyes to the question of the whole and only see as far as pay day and the little envelope that comes to them. They are not even fair to their own members and are jealous of any assumption of power by one from their own ranks.

Let them cut out this childish part

THE MATTER OF PRICE

The piano that will give you permanent service is the only one you should consider in making your selection.

But you should bear this fact in mind—that an instrument which will meet your requirements cannot be sold in price competition with the cheap pianos that are advertised at figures lower than the cost of manufacture of reliable ones.

You can buy at almost any price you want to pay. The main consideration, therefore, is to get the value of the money you invest.

Now, some pianos are offered at more than they are worth. We mean not necessarily the high-priced ones, but those which would be too costly at any figure.

A very cheap piano described as having the qualities which you know belong only to the best should at least be compared with standard instruments before you decide to buy it.

At our salesrooms you can see a complete range of pianos at various prices—none so low in price as to make sacrifice in quality necessary—none higher in price than is justified by actual merit.

You are invited to inspect this collection.

IT INCREASES THE VALUE OF THE HOUSE MORE THAN THE MONEY INVESTED.

If your house is not already piped and it is along the line of our mains we will make you the following liberal proposition:

One to four outlets, exposed, ready for fixtures, each $2.00
Additional outlets, ready for fixtures, either exposed or concealed, at $1.50

The above connections are for lights only. If you buy a gas range of us we will make connections free. By "Concealed" we mean that the pipes are laid inside of the walls and do not show. By "Exposed" we mean that the pipes are laid neatly on the outside of the wall.

SUNLIGHT.

Rev. M. J. Savage.

My text is in the nineteenth Psalm, part of the fourth, fifth and sixth verses: "The sun, which is as a bridegroom coming out of his chamber, and rejoiceth as a strong man to run a race. His going forth is from the end of the heaven, and his circuit unto the ends of it; and there is nothing hid from the heat thereof."

If we should take all the planets, all their moons, all the asteroids, all the wandering bodies that are in any way connected with this solar system of ours, and should roll them up into one ball and place them against the surface of the sun, it would be very much like a new beside an orange. That is, they would represent a little more than three per cent, only of the bulk of the sun.

If the nebular hypothesis is to be accepted—and it is generally held to by all competent scientific men—then some one (we do not know how far away in the past) the sun flung off ring after ring of its own substance, which breaking, falling together, condensing into globes, became one after another the outermost planet, and then the next and the next in its order, until the whole family was complete.

The sun, then, created the earth. How much did it create? All. We indeed believe that there is something in us, a spark of the infinite and eternal life, which the sun did not create; but even concerning this the sun did not create; but even concerning this the sun ministered in its appearance, in the development of these physical forms which are animated by the spark of Divine Life.

The sun shaped the earth, sculptured it into its present design, lifted the mountains, depressed the valleys, scooped out the hollows that are filled by the oceans and the seas.

And the sun has created the conditions and the possibility of our human civilization.

The sun has saturated with light and brilliancy and beauty every grain found in every mine. The sun has colored the plumage of every bird. The sun has made the exquisite tinting of the butterfly's wing, of the bee, of the scales on the fishes, and every glittering reptile that rejoices in the light.

The sun, then, is the source of creative power, of all force used in our practical civilized life, of all the beauty that delights the eye and the heart. Joy is also creative; and so the creation of all life is an ecstasy, and so the creation of all high, fine, sweet things is inseparable from joy.

Sadness, depression, weakness, depletes us of strength, takes away from our ability. Joy sets the heart beating, the blood dancing, gives us a quickness and newness of power. Joy is the power that helps us accomplish great things. If a man wishes to succeed in life, let him choose a career, a kind of business, in which he can take delight. If it is task-work, if it is something that he does against the grain, if he would let it alone if he might, he may get through it perfunctorily and fairly well; but no great and fine thing is ever done in that spirit or in that way.

All the beautiful things of the world that man has created have been thought of by great delight and ecstasy of joy. I see Michael Angelo at his work on a scaffold, painting some great scene upon the ceiling of some sacred edifice, or with the mallet, or chisel in his hands, seeking for the figure of beauty that his own thought places within the unwrought stone. There must be the delight of creation, of discovery, of power, in working out these things.

So all the great work of the world goes along with this accompaniment of delight, of joy.

You cannot help it. Did you ever hear of a man's choosing something which he did not choose? It is a contradiction in terms; it is an absurdity in its very statement. You cannot voluntarily choose that which you do not like. You may indeed choose pain, choose a dark path instead of a bright one, choose self-sacrifice, temporary agony even, but always for the sake of some higher, farther joy. If it is not a joy for yourself, it is a joy for somebody else; and you take joy in giving the joy to somebody else.

I do not say that it is right—it is often wrong—to choose that which gives immediate gratification; but why is it wrong? Because choosing immediate delight is frequently the straightest road to an ultimate sorrow, to evil for yourself or somebody else; and always, always—there is no exception—if it is wrong to choose anything you would like to have, it is wrong because some way and some where it is going to be pain for somebody, and a greater pain than the immediate delight. If not, then it would not be wrong.

But, rationally, self-sacrifice is simply the giving up of a lesser good for a greater.

Let us be sunlight, the creative power, the helping power, the beautifying power, in human life; and if we wish to be able to others, we must make these things a part of our own nature. In spite of ourselves we carry an influence among other people, determined by what we are. We may play the hypocrite and cheat ourselves; but in the long run we cannot cheat the world, for the influence we have on others is determined by what we are.

Our shadow is our own, and not somebody's else; and it is determined by ourselves. Let us, then, be sunlight, cultivate this sunny spirit, this optimistic, hopeful spirit in our own lives.

Did you ever think of it, that the sun is the sun of virtue of the fact, and by this alone, that it is constantly giving itself away? It is generous; that makes the sun the sun. If the sun were stingy and selfish, it would cease to be the sun.

Then what next? It will inevitably follow, I suppose; but it means that we shall be unselfish, and radiate what we are.

So, if we cease to give, cease to radiate love, tenderness, sympathy, help, care, we cease to have them; we cease to be men and women, children of God, creators and dispensers of good.

Let us, then, be sunshine, and rejoice that, like God's sun, we can give light and life and joy; that, like God himself, of whom it is said that he is love, we can be love. And being love means the precise opposite of selfishness means giving the very substance of one's life for the good of others.

Dear Father, how glad we are that we can share Thy nature and share Thy generous giving. Thy self-forgetfulness, and give ourselves for the good of the world, and thus be sunshine, be fragrance, be power, be beauty, be joy for those that need! Amen.

JAPANESE SUSPECTS GO TO CIVIL AUTHORITIES

Are Charged With Spying on Defenses at Manila—Ambassador Uchida Talks.

Washington, Apr. 2.—The two Japanese citizens, accused of obtaining information about the defenses of Manila, have been ordered turned over to the civil authorities by the secretary of the navy as there is no federal statute to fit their case. The men are being held by Maj. Gen. Duval commanding in the Philippines. It is not admitted at the war department or at the state department that Japan has in any way let its interest in the case be known to this government.

Baron Uchida, the Japanese ambassador, however, called at the state department and had a talk with the officials there. After seeing Huntington Wilson, acting secretary of state, the ambassador declared that he knew nothing about the matter of the alleged spies other than what he had read in the newspapers.

Talking about the future, Baron Uchida said, in answer to specific questions: "I should not think that my government would interest itself in this matter, while it is in the hands of the United States authorities. I do not know that any action is contemplated, but certainly nothing will be done until after the cases are disposed of by the authorities, that is if any action were necessary."

NIGHT RIDERS LASH FAMILY.

Woman, Son and Daughter Scaten—Another Son Shot to Death.

Brownsville, Ky., Apr. 2.—Investigation has confirmed the report that on last Tuesday night night riders stormed the home of Mrs. Del Carroll, near Goff post office, in this county, gave her and her 18-year-old son and 16-year-old daughter a severe beating and shot and killed Charles Carroll, her 12-year-old son, who was trying to defend his mother and sister.

It is said that some of the leading men in that section of the country were in the crowd, but so far no names have been given.

STANDARD OIL DECISION WILL NOT CAUSE PANIC

Secretary MacVeagh Has No Fear That Result Will Disturb Business.

Washington, Apr. 2.—That the decision of the supreme court against the Standard Oil Company or the tobacco trust will bring about a panic in this country is not feared by Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh.

His information, gleaned from the leading bankers of the country, is that the banks are well fortified with money and even if a slight disturbance was made by the announcement of a decision it will not disturb the credit of the country.

Mr. MacVeagh says that fear in the minds of some is not because of the two decisions but because of the speculation which will follow the announcement. If a considerable part of the population believes that the two decisions will bring on an avalanche of attacks on corporations, there will be trouble. The fact that the two big corporations are convicted will not damage the financial condition of the country, but suspicion that there is to be a governmental onslaught on capital will.

Secretary MacVeagh is viewing the financial situation in the country with complacency. He is giving little thought to a bond issue and says that if things go along as smoothly as they have been there may be no need for an issue of bonds.

Life of the Red Deer.

According to an old Gaelic legend a red deer might live for 210 years, an eagle for 630, and an oak tree for nearly 10 centuries! Nowadays, however, 100-year-old deer would be difficult to find. From 25 to 35 years apparently may be about the range of their existence.—Country Gentleman, London.

THE PINCHOT QUIZ CAUSES A CLASH

CHAIRMAN NELSON ACCUSES GLAVIN'S ATTORNEY OF MIS-LEADING COMMITTEE.

JONES IS CALLED FALSIFIER

Lively Scenes When Testimony for Secretary Ballinger Is Begun Before Joint Committee—District Attorney Todd Is Heard.

Washington, Apr. 2.—The resumption of the hearing in the Ballinger-Pinchot inquiry brought about a most serious clash between Chairman Nelson and Attorney Brandeis in which all members of the committee participated.

The quarrel, which continued for an hour or more, was added evidence of the growing feeling of partisanship among the Democratic and Republican members of the committee, and was taken by many to mean the hopelessness of a unanimous agreement of any sort.

A row was precipitated by Chairman Nelson accusing Attorney Brandeis, representing the "prosecution," of attempting to deceive or conceal something from the committee. The attorney, flushed with anger, jumped to his feet and demanded that the chairman's remark be withdrawn.

Democrats Take Up Defense.

Democratic members of the committee were quick to take up the defense of the attorney and Representative Graham of Illinois moved that the chairman be directed to withdraw the imputation. Representative Jones seconded the motion. There followed a general discussion in which every member of the committee present took part and stated his personal views.

The matter finally was disposed of by a motion to lay on the table. This was carried by a vote of 4 to 3.

Two witnesses were offered on behalf of Mr. Ballinger. They were District Attorney Elmer E. Todd of Seattle and United States Marshal H. K. Love of Alaska. Mr. Love was formerly a special agent of the land office. Both of the witnesses declared that statements made by Special Agent H. T. Jones, for the "prosecution," were false.

Says Jones Falsified.

Prior to meeting Louis H. Glavin in Seattle in July, 1907, Mr. Love said he had already made favorable reports to the register and receiver of the land office at Juneau on 26 out of 33 Cunningham claims.

Mr. Vortress read to the witness a statement by Special Agent Jones to the effect that Love had said he was under obligations to a number of "Alaska claimants because of his candidacy for United States marshal" and that he was very anxious to be relieved of investigating all the Alaska claims.

"That statement is absolutely false," said Mr. Love.

The witness then proceeded to detail just what he had said to Jones. He said he had told Jones he was a candidate for marshal and would be glad to be out of the interior department. He had asked, just 60 days before Jones had reported the alleged conversation, to be transferred to Seattle during the winter in order to better investigate the coal claimants, practically all of whom lived in the states.

"Sore" Against Ballinger.

The witness then proceeded to detail by detail to deny the truth of various statements made by Jones. These had reference to the manner of taking affidavits as to the witness' reasons for refusing to sign a report with Jones, etc. Mr. Love said he was a little "sore" against Mr. Ballinger for having put him to work under Jones, and, as he was only an "assistant," he did not feel it incumbent upon him to sign any reports made by Jones.

As to his protest in a letter to Bennett that his report of August 2, 1907, did not "clear him," the Cunningham claims, but raised a doubt as to their validity, the witness said it was the first time he had heard the term "clear him," and he took it to mean as freeing the claims from all question as to fact and law. As a matter of fact, the witness said, he had raised a question in his report of August 2, based on a statement by Judge Ballinger that a transfer even after entry constituted fraud.

"I had never understood the law that way, and wrote to the department to say that if that was the light construction of the law then there was a question as to the Cunningham claims."

GERMAN LOCKOUT IS LIKELY.

Million and Half Workmen Involved in Trades Disputes.

Berlin, Apr. 2.—A gigantic lock-out initiated by 22,000 employers of labor,

ALL-WRONG.

The Mistake Is Made by Many Janesville Citizens.

Don't mistake the cause of backache. To be cured you must know the cause.

It is wrong to imagine relief in cure. Backache is kidney ache.

You must cure the kidneys. A Janesville resident tells you how.

Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, 58 Terrace St., Janesville, Wis., says: "I was a sufferer from rheumatism and kidney trouble for ten or twelve years, and during that time I had some bad spells. I did not have much pain, but was constantly annoyed by a swelling of my joints. I could find nothing that would give me relief until four years ago when I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills. I felt better soon after beginning their use and my kidneys are now strong. I have not been without a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills in the house since then. I heartily recommend them to other kidney sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Involving directly and indirectly a million and a half workmen, appears inevitable in the German building trades. It is expected to begin on April 14. The war is the culmination of a long series of disputes between the organizations of employers and workmen on account of wages and hours of work. The minister of trade has been asked to intervene as mediator.

Fearful They Are First Involved in Ohio Railroad Strike.

Toledo, O., Apr. 2.—What is feared to be only the first of a number of railroad employees' strikes involving roads entering Toledo came when some 3,000 section hands on the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad laid down their tools because of the refusal of a demand for an increase in wages.

600 HURT IN THEATER FIRE.

Fire at Fort Smith, Ark. Causes Panic in Play House.

Fort Smith, Ark., Apr. 2.—Many persons were injured in a panic in the Grand theater here. Six hundred men, women and children became terror-stricken and rushed for the doors when the building of Swift & Co. across the alley from the theater, caught fire. The plant was destroyed, entailing a loss of $50,000.

Car Peace Far Away.

Philadelphia, Apr. 2.—John Mitchell and other labor leaders met with United States Senator Penrose and State Senator McNichols in an effort to secure a settlement of the city's street car strike. Leaders of the union do not expect a settlement soon.

PROBE IN GLASS TRUST ENDS.

Charged With Violation of Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Apr. 2.—United States District Attorney Jordan announced the investigation by the federal department of justice into the business of the Imperial Window Glass Company had been completed. He also stated that evidence purporting to show that the corporation has violated the Sherman anti-trust act is ready for presentation to a special grand jury which has been drawn to meet here next Monday.

The company named has factories and offices in Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, North Carolina, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Portland, Ore., Apr. 2.—The jury in the trial of Walter H. Moore, president of the defunct Oregon Trust and Savings bank, charged with accepting a deposit after he knew the bank to be insolvent, returned a verdict of "not guilty."

Cherub Devine

"Merrill" murmured the count, quite undisturbed. "But there's no danger. I haven't the least intention of seeing the countess, much less of speaking to her. I had much rather talk to her attorneys."

"Want to see her lawyers, eh? Well, she don't keep them out here in the bushes."

"This time the count indulged in quite a genuine smile."

"My dear Mr. Devine," he protested, "you don't understand the situation. Perhaps if you did you could be of help to me. Allow me to state, then, that it was not to revive a long dead sentiment which brought me to America, but a sordid little matter of money. To be definite, there was a marriage settlement, a paltry affair in the shape of a promised yearly income. At first it was paid in full and regularly; then the payments came at irregular intervals and were only partial. Of late they have ceased. I am informed by Mr. Hewington that he finds it impossible to continue them. As though I would believe that! So I come here to see for myself if the rich Mr. Hewington has suddenly become a beggar. And this is what I find!"

Count Veech shrugged his shoulders, spread out his palms and indicated the broad expanse of Hewington Acres.

"Such an estate does not suggest poverty to me. Now I am prepared to interview the attorneys of my wife, the countess."

A twinkle of amusement appeared in the blue eyes of Mr. Devine.

"Imagine you can collect, do you?" he asked.

"I can make the attempt. It depends, I suppose, on what value Mr. Hewington sets upon his word and whether or not he is willing to have his pleasant little fiction as to a defunct non-existent person, Mr. Devine, could appreciate audacity. He grinned.

"I think you're a slick article," said he, "and I should say you had got 'em. Looks to me as if Mr. Hewington would either have to chloroform you or buy you off."

Count Veech indulged in a non-chalant shrug.

"I ask you what is justly due. One cannot live without money."

"There's more or less truth in that, count, only—"

Count Veech interrupted him. "Over here we don't make a practice of chasing our wives to get it."

"Bah!" The count waved aside this reference to his brief domestic career. "Over here I shall make my demands through medium of legal representatives."

"You're improving. Going to call on them today?"

"As soon as I can get a message to the countess and learn the names of her attorneys."

"Oh, I see! Now, wait. Let me think that over a minute." The Cherub rubbed his pink chin thoughtfully.

"You say you don't insist upon seeing the countess personally; all you want is the address of her lawyers."

"The count nodded."

"Then I'll tell you what we might do," suggested Mr. Devine. "Let's go up and ask 'Timmie' to find out. We can get to his office without being seen. What do you say?"

"The count was quite willing. He offered Mr. Devine a cigarette in his most affable manner, and when the Cherub had resumed his straw hat they started off through the maze of bluestone walks for the stables."

On reaching the office he left the count outside and went in alone to consult 'Timmie'.

"Ever saw a picture of Count Veech?" he asked 'Timmie'.

Yes, 'Timmie' had, but not for a couple of years.

"Take a squint through the window at the chapel outside," said Mr. Devine. "Did the picture look anything like him?"

"Timmie peered through the glass. 'Yes, very like him, sir,' he went on. 'Then that's him,' declared the Cherub."

"Not the one that they said was?"

"No, sir, that's him."

"Suppose you don't," put in the Cherub. "It would simplify matters a lot if you didn't."

"I have been accustomed, Mr. Devine, to be told of all that went on about this estate, even to the smallest detail. I should like to know, sir, to whom you were talking just now."

"All right," said the Cherub, with a gesture of resignation. "There's the gentleman's card."

As Mr. Hewington replaced his glasses and read the full name of Count Veech an expression of complete consternation, not to say panic, spread over his features.

"Impossible!" he whispered hoarsely. "Just what I thought when he sprung it on me," commented the Cherub. "I told him he was a dead one. He says he isn't."

"Then the count isn't dead, eh?"

Cherub Devine watched with mild amusement the confusion of mind into which Mr. Hewington was immediately plunged.

"My dear Mr. Devine," said he at last, taking the Cherub by the arm

"Yes, but he says he isn't. Chances he never died at all. Now, what do you guess he's here for?"

"Judging by what I've heard, sir, I should say he might be after money."

"Timmie, you're a blind reader. That's just what he is after."

"Why, the sneaking, unmanly villain!" exploded 'Timmie. "He ought to be put in jail, sir."

"Well, something ought to be done with him. What's that little stone coop without any windows down there by the swan lake?"

"That's the leechhouse, sir."

"Pull up, is it?"

"Oh, no, sir; not now, sir. It's very near empty, I think."

"Room for a cot bed and a chair or so, is there?"

'Timmie grinned expressively.

"Plenty of room, sir."

"How about air, 'Timmie?"

"Excellent ventilation, sir. Has to be, you know."

"Good! Now, you slip out the back way and go down there, will you? Go inside and shut the door. When you hear me knock you'll know I've come with a caller. Get the idea, eh?"

"Do I, sir? Oh, my eye! Oh, my eye!" And, with one hand over his mouth, 'Timmie disappeared.

The leechhouse at Hewington Acres was a most substantial building. In the front were two doors—one at the top, reached by a permanent ladder; the other on a level with the ground. This latter was a double door, with an air space between. The outside half was of thick oak and swung on heavy strap hinges. In the upper panel was a diamond shaped design of silver holes. Standing outside and looking up at these perforations was Cherub Devine. He was not studying the design. He was talking to some unseen person behind the thick door, conversing easily and pleasantly in spite of the handicap. "True, he was on the free side of the door. That makes a difference, of course."

On the whole, Cherub Devine felt a grim satisfaction in knowing that the count was safe under lock and key instead of dodging around the grounds, where he might come across the countess at any moment. Even if there was no danger of a tender reunion it was best to have the count shut up, for he was bent on making trouble. At that very moment he was so declaring to the full extent of his lung power. Through the silver holes he was shouting that Mr. Devine, the countess, Mr. Hewington and 'Timmie should all pay dearly for this high handed outrage.

"You're a cursed Yankee pig!" howled the imprisoned count.

"Sorry you're so stirred up over it," soothingly observed the Cherub.

"Kidnap!" shrieked the count.

"Guilty," responded the Cherub. "First offense, though. Now for heaven's sake calm down."

"It's beastly in here! My shoes are getting full of something!"

"Nothing but sawdust," answered the Cherub. "I'll have 'Timmie spread a rug or something over it."

"I'll make it hot for you when I get out!"

"Bare! And for the Hewingtons, too, I expect?"

"You'll both have to pay for this as soon as I'm free."

"There! You see!" exclaimed the Cherub cheerfully. "You'd stir up a bad mess, of course. We could put you in jail for attempted blackmail, but that would bring out that the countess wasn't a widow, and all that old gossip would be dug up again and printed in all the papers, and I'd be held up as a kidnaper. No, my dear count, it wouldn't do at all."

The Cherub had wished him a pleasant evening and a good night's rest and was just turning to go to the stables to see 'Timmie when he found himself facing Mr. Hewington. Astonishment was stamped on every line of the old gentleman's aristocratic countenance.

"Why—why, Mr. Devine! You seem to be holding a conversation with some person in there." And he indicated the closed door of the leechhouse.

"Guess I was," admitted the Cherub. "How singular! And—er—might I—er—ask—"

"Suppose you don't," put in the Cherub. "It would simplify matters a lot if you didn't."

"I have been accustomed, Mr. Devine, to be told of all that went on about this estate, even to the smallest detail. I should like to know, sir, to whom you were talking just now."

"All right," said the Cherub, with a gesture of resignation. "There's the gentleman's card."

As Mr. Hewington replaced his glasses and read the full name of Count Veech an expression of complete consternation, not to say panic, spread over his features.

"Impossible!" he whispered hoarsely. "Just what I thought when he sprung it on me," commented the Cherub. "I told him he was a dead one. He says he isn't."

"Then the count isn't dead, eh?"

Cherub Devine watched with mild amusement the confusion of mind into which Mr. Hewington was immediately plunged.

"My dear Mr. Devine," said he at last, taking the Cherub by the arm and leading him away from the leechhouse, "I—er—ah—that is—I hardly know how to—"

"Yes; I understand. Why not let it come straight out, though?"

"Well, I must begin by making the regretful admission that we discovered soon after my daughter's marriage—indeed, on the very day of the ceremony—that he was a person of absolute talents."

"Yes, I heard all that the first day I struck here. And then?"

"Then, sir, there was an immediate separation. For a time I continued to supply him with funds, however, but after we left Italy I gradually ceased to do so. About two years ago the count became so dissipated that it was necessary to confine him in a sanatorium. He disappeared from his old haunts. This gave rise to the rumor that he was dead. It was so reported here. Naturally the countess assumed appropriate mourning garb. A few weeks later we learned the falseness of the rumor. The count was still in the sanatorium and much benefited by his stay there. But this fact was not made public."

"THE IMPUDENT SCOUNDREL!"

"I see," said the Cherub. "He says he's come to collect that income you promised him."

"The impudent scoundrel!" exclaimed Mr. Hewington, lifting his clenched fist.

"That's the talk! I wouldn't give up to him if I were you. But he says if he isn't paid he'll bring suit and advertise the fact that he's still alive."

"The villain!" gasped Mr. Hewington.

"I had him sized up that way from the start. That's why I checked him in on the law."

"On the law, Mr. Devine?"

"Why, sure! I thought he'd cool off quicker in there than anywhere else."

"Ah, I had forgotten that is the leechhouse, of course. And he threatens to make public his identity? This is terrible, Mr. Devine. I have told every one that he was—Why, just think! It will be known that I have stooped to—deception!"

"The trembling jaw of De Courcy Hewington gave him."

"Devine," said he, "this must not be. That man must not be allowed at large."

"Oh, I'll attend to that, all right. You just stay mum and I'll keep him on the lee. But not a word to the countess."

"Not a word," promised Mr. Hewington. "And in a month or so I will build another leechhouse for next summer's use."

"For next summer?" And the Cherub's gaze widened as the full significance of this remark became clear to him. "Then you're planning to give the count a good, long term, eh? Well, say, there's nothing slow about you, is there? Whew! Guess I'll have to think it over."

Information to Voters in Regard to the Election to Be Held On April 5, 1910

DIRECTIONS FOR VOTING ON THE VOTING MACHINE: 1st. Close the curtain. 2d. Pull the Yellow Lever having on it the name of your political party over to the right until the Bell rings. (This will turn down the Pointers over the names of the candidates in your party.) 3d. If you wish to vote a Straight Party Ticket, leave the Pointers as they are (Down, in their voting position). But if you wish to "split," or "scratch," your ticket, turn Up the Pointer from over the name of the candidate in your own party that you wish to cut out, and then turn Down the Pointer over the name of the candidate you wish to vote for, and leave it there. (As these are non-partisan officers, they must each be voted for individually, as their Pointers are not turned down by the pulling of the Party Levers.) 4th. Vote for the Judges and State Superintendent of Schools in columns No. 15 and higher, by turning down a Pointer over each name you wish to vote for, and leaving it there. (As these are non-partisan officers, they must each be voted for individually, as their Pointers are not turned down by the pulling of the Party Levers.) 5th. Open the Curtain. NOTE—Unless you are sure that you know just how to operate the machine, it would be well for you to practice on some machine before election day.

HOW TO VOTE ON THE U. S. STANDARD VOTING MACHINE.

Move the Red Handle of the Curtain Lever to the right as far as it will go. This will close the Curtain around you, and unlock the machine for voting.

VOTER ABOUT TO CLOSE THE CURTAIN.

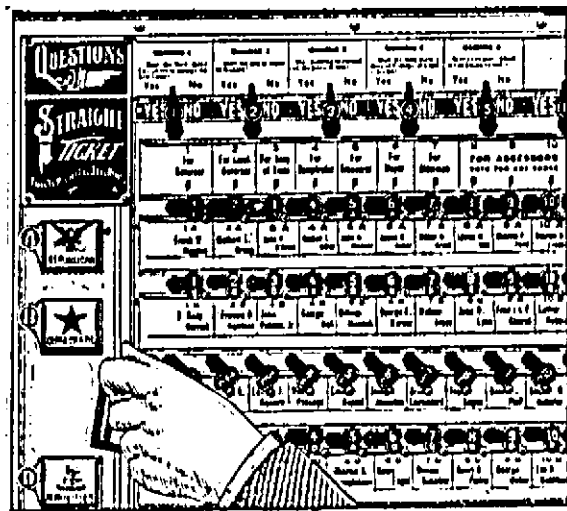

HOW TO VOTE ON QUESTIONS.

To vote Yes, turn the Question Pointer to the word Yes, and leave it there. To vote No, turn the Question Pointer to the word No, and leave it there.

HOW TO VOTE A STRAIGHT TICKET.

Having closed the Curtain—Pull the Party Lever bearing the name or emblem of your Party over to the right UNTIL THE BELL RINGS, and then let it go back. This turns down to a voting position all of the Pointers of the candidates of your party.

The ringing of the bell signifies that the Party Lever has been pulled far enough to unlock the Curtain Lever and engage the registering mechanism.

VOTER PULLING OVER PARTY LEVER.

The turned down Pointers indicate the names of the candidates for whom the vote will be cast.

Leave the Pointers as they are (down in a voting position).

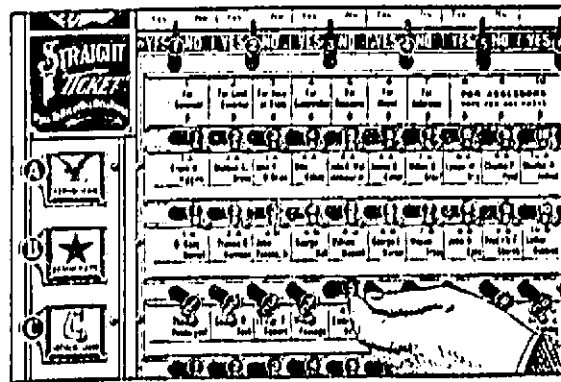

Move the Red Handle of the Curtain Lever to the left as far as it will go.

This will count your vote, open the Curtain, and set the machine for the next voter.

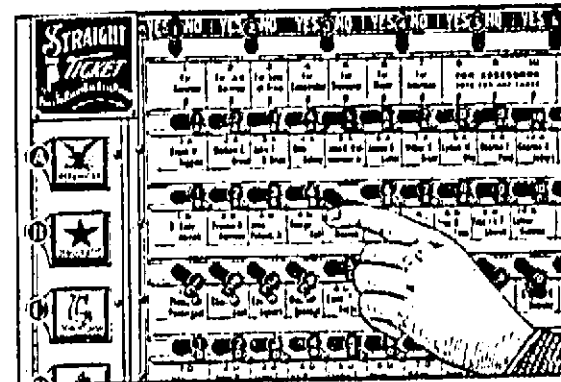

HOW TO VOTE A SPLIT TICKET.

Having closed the Curtain—Pull the Party Lever bearing the name or emblem of your Party over to the right UNTIL THE BELL RINGS, and then let it go back. This turns down to a voting position all of the Pointers of the candidates of your party.

Turn back (up) the Pointer from over the name of the candidate you wish to cut. See illustration below.

And then turn down a Pointer over the name of the candidate you wish to vote for for that office. See illustration below.

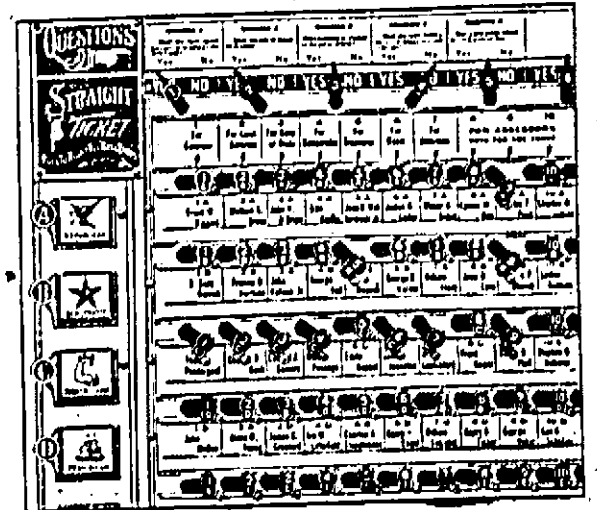

Be sure to complete each Split before making another. For an office to which two or more candidates are to be elected, the required number of candidates can be voted for, and no more, regardless of position.

After the vote is arranged, move the Red Handle of the Curtain Lever to the left as far as it will go. This will count one vote for every candidate that has a Pointer left down over his name.

HOW TO VOTE ON QUESTIONS.

To vote Yes, turn the Question Pointer to the word Yes, and leave it there. To vote No, turn the Question Pointer to the word No, and leave it there.

THE ABOVE CUT SHOWS:

That the voter has voted Party Lever "C" and then—Split his vote for Treasurer, on Column 5.

That he has voted for Assessors, voting for three on Column 3 (for which office he is permitted to vote for any three candidates on either of the Columns, 8, 9, and 10).

That he has voted "Yes" on Questions 1 and 2.

That he has not voted on Questions 3 and 5.

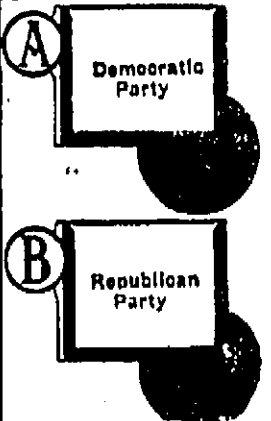

That he has voted "No" on Question 4. If the voter desires, he may make any further changes while the Curtain remains closed, as the vote is not registered until the Curtain is opened.

The Pointers must be left down over the names to be voted for. If the voter turns them back the vote will not be counted, as the opening of the Curtain turns back the Pointers and counts the vote.
